When he was a youngster growing up Mike Pennini was an alter boy, an MVP athlete and Golden Gloves boxer. He never imagined in his wildest dreams he would be a pioneer of a new genre in Hip Hop and collaborate with some of the most respected rappers in the game. As life has its ups and downs, Pennini's life was hills and valleys. "When I was growing up in Morris Park my father was always there to teach me how to fight back and helped me learn the rules of the street".

His father wasn't some little league dad with a white collar job. He was Thomas Pennini. An associate of 4 powerful syndicates in New York. "My father was a street guy operating out of the South Bronx & Harlem". The younger Pennini went on to say: "I watched him move his way up. He had me in the finest schools in Westchester, living in a ridiculously beautiful house, he was driving fancy cars. We were living in luxury".

The proverbial hammer slammed down on Thomas Pennini in 1987 when a Judge sentenced him to 8 years for heroin trafficking. Although he was connected to different families, it was this pinch that brought him closer to The Dapper Don (you know, that guy).

As word spread around the hip hop community about him, The Shark started getting calls and hooking up with some of rap's elite fire spitters. Papoose dropped two with Shark. "Midnight Express" and Sleep with the fishes were both big hits on Kay Slay's Street Sweepers. D Block's Sheek Louch teamed up with The Shark on "Really Doesn't Matter" which was produced by Frank G of Gucc Beats. Black Rob of Bad Boy fame jumped in the ring with The Shark for "Different Angles". The song "My Environment" featured Maino. "Beware (You're Dying)" co-starred Lakey The Kid. The hip hop princess Remy Martin loaned her talents to The Shark's track "We In Here". He teamed up with one of the rappers he was most influenced by, Kool G Rap in the classic "Razah Sharp". Wu Tang Clan's Iron Man, Tony Starks himself, Ghostface Killah joined The Shark on: M.O.B. feat. Ghostface Killah

Most recently The Shark has been heavily involved in the "VINTAGE DONS" project with G Fella and JoJo Pellegrino. MOBSTERS-Vintage Dons- G Fella, The Shark & JoJo Pellegrino

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Loan\_shark

A loan shark is a person who offers loans at extremely high interest rates, has strict terms of collection upon failure, and operates outside of the street (outside of local authority).[1]

Violent loansharking was typically run by criminal syndicates, such as the Mafia. Many of these were former bootleggers who needed a new line of work after the end of Prohibition. Towards the 1960s, loan sharks grew ever more coordinated, and could pool information on borrowers to better size up risks and ensure a borrower did not try to pay off one loan by borrowing from another loan shark. The fearsome reputation of the Mafia or similar large gang made the loan shark's threat of violence more credible.
